A Guide to Paying for College

Welcome to Johns Hopkins!

We are committed to bringing the most talented, creative, and ambitious students to the Hopkins community, regardless of their family’s financial circumstances.

Our financial aid programs allow us to make a Hopkins education possible for all students based on their achievements and potential, not their personal financial situation. Financial aid advisers work closely with every aid applicant, providing guidance and support throughout the process. There are many resources available to help families pay for college, and we’ve compiled some of the most helpful information in this guide.

At Hopkins, you’ll find:

Support and guidance. The Office of Student Financial Services will help your family navigate the financial aid application process and explore the resources available to help your family pay for college now and throughout your time here. We are ready to guide you through the information you need to make the best decision for your family.

Flexibility. There are many options available to help fund your child’s education. We know that each family has unique circumstances, and our advisers are skilled in walking you through the available options.

Commitment. At Hopkins, we are dedicated to meeting 100% of need for our families for all four years of undergraduate study. If your financial circumstances change, our advisers will re-evaluate your eligibility in consideration of your family’s current situation.

This guide is just a start to the conversation about how to pay for college. To continue the discussion, please contact us or visit our office when you’re on campus. We look forward to working with you now and in the future.

Things to Know

- Begin—or continue—the conversation about financing your child’s education using the information in this resource. Please reach out to our office if you need more information or assistance.
- Every applicant is assigned a financial aid adviser. Your adviser’s contact information was included with your aid notification and is also available at finaid.jhu.edu under “Contact Us.” Your adviser welcomes the opportunity to work with you and is readily available to answer any questions.
- Considering a parent PLUS loan? Apply online at studentloans.gov beginning in May. Remember that Parent PLUS loan requests will be processed beginning in June.
- Fall semester bills are mailed from the Office of Student Accounts in early July. Payment is due to the university in mid-August. Spring semester bills are emailed in December. Payment for the spring semester is due in mid-January.
- Research and apply for scholarships from private organizations from local, regional, and national sources. Additional information can be found at finaid.jhu.edu/undergraduate-aid under Types of Aid: Grants and Scholarships.

Getting Started

This guide gives you basic information about the resources that our families use most frequently to help pay for college. Families often combine several of the following options to create the plan that works best for them.

Financing Options

Federal Direct Loan Programs

Federal Direct loan programs can help make college more affordable by enabling families to spread educational expenses over time. Federal Direct Loan Programs can be a valuable source of aid.

Subsidized Federal Direct Loans are need-based, the federal government pays the interest while you’re in school at least half-time and for the first six months after you graduate or drop below half-time status. The interest rate for 2017-18 is 4.45 percent. Interest rates are set annually in June.

Unsubsidized Federal Direct Loans are not need-based and are available to all students regardless of income. Interest accrues on the loan beginning at the time of disbursement and can be paid monthly or quarterly, or capitalized upon graduation. Independent students and dependent students whose parents are denied a Direct Loan may borrow an additional unsubsidized loan. Freshmen and sophomores can borrow an additional $4,000 per year, while juniors and seniors can borrow an additional $5,000 per year.

Federal Direct Parent PLUS Loans are federally guaranteed loans available to parents of dependent undergraduate students. There is no financial need requirement to receive these loans, but the student must submit a FAFSA and meet federal eligibility requirements. The parent borrower must not have an adverse credit history. Borrowers are eligible to request up to the full cost of attendance minus any financial aid the student receives.

PLUS Loan Application Process:

1. Complete the 2018-19 Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA). Subsequent years of PLUS loans will be accepted beginning on May 1.

2. Complete your PLUS loan online at studentloans.gov. Requests for PLUS will be accepted beginning on May 1.

3. Now Federal Direct PLUS loan borrowers will also need to sign a Master Promissory Note, available on the Direct Loan website: studentloans.gov

Federal Parent PLUS Loan Terms:

(a) The interest rate for 2017-18 is 7 percent. The interest rate for 2018-19 will be set in June 2018.

(b) Interest accrues beginning after the first disbursement and at the consolidation rate.

(c) A 5.86 percent origination fee is deducted from each disbursement.

(d) The origination fee may change depending on congressional legislation.

PLUS Loan Disbursement:

Disbursements are scheduled at the beginning of each semester and are deposited directly into the student’s account.

PLUS Loan Repayment:

Standard repayment begins 60 days after the loan is fully disbursed. Fully disbursed amounts that all installments (full and spring) have been posted to a student’s account. This typically occurs in late January with repayment beginning in May/June.

Parents may choose to defer payments up to six months after the student completes his/her studies or drops below half-time status. Interest will accrue and be capitalized quarterly. Parents may choose to pay the interest on a monthly or quarterly basis.

There is no prepayment penalty.

Consolidation options and extended graduated repayment plans are available.

Monetary Payment Plan

A plan is available to parents to help meet the expected family contribution and/or the full cost of Johns Hopkins University with manageable monthly payments. The plan allows parents to pay up to the annual cost of tuition and room/board in 10 equal monthly installments with payments beginning on June 1. No interest is charged, but there is an enrollment fee of $55 per semester. Many families combine the monthly payment plan with other options, such as the PLUS loan, to pay for college in the way that makes the most sense for their families. Many combinations are possible. For more information about the Tuition Management Systems (TMS) Monthly Payment Plan, go to jhuniversityafford.com or call 1-800-224-4867.

Additional Scholarship Sources

Outside/Private Scholarships from external organizations can be a valuable source of aid. We want students to get the full value of their scholarships, so you may use your private scholarships, so you may use your private sources of institutional aid. Your private sources of institutional aid may be used at Johns Hopkins University grants/scholarship assistance is greater than the interest rate for 2017-18 is 7 percent. Higher Education Tax Benefits

There are several federal income tax benefits available for families who have expenses for higher education. Your family may qualify for the American Opportunity or Lifetime Learning tax credits. Information and eligibility requirements for tax benefits are available in IRS Publication 970 or at its.gov.

Other Financing Sources

Some families choose other financing options, such as home equity loans, lines of credit, or borrowing against life insurance. Please contact your accountant and/or financial planner to discuss these options.

“The financial aid opportunity that Hopkins gave me was much better than that of any of the state schools that I applied to. The financial assistance there wasn’t as much as Hopkins is doing right now. That really pushed my decision to enroll, but I think, overall, Hopkins is an amazing place to do something important.”
